

 Meltwater

Meltwater is the global leader in online media intelligence. Managing IT delivery to their rapidly growing workforce across 27 countries and 54 cities can be a challenge, but this is exactly what Global IT Infrastructure Manager Ben Adderley does with his busy team of IT professionals.

“

I need my team to be focused on delivering IT Services across our rapidly growing Infrastructure and user base whilst delivering key IT Projects. I must have agile and reliable partners to focus on working with us and our vendors to guarantee continuity of product supply across Europe.

Fortem IT do a great job managing this for us. They hold stock for us and work closely with all our European offices to ensure a just in time delivery model is maintained. Due to their close ties with our chosen vendors they also keep us up to date with product life-cycle information. With Fortem IT taking care of our 'business as usual' my team are able to focus on projects that are ensuring Meltwater remain at the forefront of media intelligence.

”